Cybersecurity Overview & Future Legal Insights:

Protecting company and customer data from cybersecurity threats is now one of the most important and challenging strategic initiatives companies face. We will review recent legislation, including GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) and ODPa (Ohio Data Protection Act), as well as CCPA (California Consumer Protection Act) which will go into effect in January 2020. If the current laws are not applicable to your business today, we will explain why you should still consider developing policies and procedures to protect your company's data and prepare for the future.
